Success Story

Autism Acceptance Month: Francisco's Story

By the time Francisco was a year and eight months old, his mother, Norma, suspected that he may be developmentally delayed. "He never really talked until he was like 7 years old." It wasn't until he was enrolled in school that he got a diagnosis of autism and ADHD. Norma was concerned about the impact his would have on Francisco's future, but with the help of the Division of Employment and Rehabilitation Services, Francisco learned the practical skills and soft skills that would prepare him for the workforce and start him on his professional journey.
